

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system, method, and computer program product for providing wholesale provisioning services. End-users are routed to a particular service provider for providing a particular service through an access network based on a service requested by the end-user. Information is maintained in a database as to which service provider has been selected by an end-user for providing a particular service. If the end-user's preferred service provider is unavailable to provide the requested service, an alternate service provider, as specified by the end-user and maintained in the database, may provide the requested service.